New England Tech Students Receive Prestigious Awards at the Society for Advancement of Management International Business Conference 2022

East Greenwich, RI – Dr. Douglas H. Sherman, Provost and Senior Vice President at New England Institute of Technology (NEIT), is pleased to announce that a team of eight New England Tech students received several awards at the Society for Advancement of Management (SAM) International Business Conference 2022. This was the third consecutive year that a virtual conference was held with an increased number of high-quality teams competing from across the globe.

As part of the conference, NEIT students participated virtually in the International Collegiate Business Skills Championship organized from SAM headquarters in Orlando, Florida on March 30-April 1. The events included Extemporaneous Speech, Business Knowledge Bowl, Business Pitch, Written Case Study, and Presentation Case Study Competitions. Awards are recognized by SAM for overall performance and separately in each competition segment. The standings are listed below:

The National Outstanding Student Award recognizes the hard work, growth, and development of SAM Collegiate Members over the course of the year. It is one of the highest honors an individual student can earn. Congratulations to Shelby Perry (Masters in Public Health) who was selected for her academic performance, excellence in research, and commitment to fight human trafficking. Shelby, along with NEIT Business Management Associate Professor, Hank Johnson, presented Managing Training for Healthcare Professionals and First Responders to Combat Human Trafficking. This was Shelby's fourth professional conference sharing her research work. Shelby was also recognized for her leadership of the SAM Club Chapter at NEIT which was established in 2017.

Other conference awards included:

Regional Outstanding Student

- Shelby Perry
- Shawn Ready
- Jennifer Carpenter

Campus Chapter Performance Program (Small Chapter Division)

- 2nd Place: New England Institute of Technology

“Other conference participants have asked us why New England Tech has been so consistently successful in the Business Skills Championship,” stated Christine Stevens, Department Chair, Business Management program. “Our experiential learning approach allows students to practice real-world skills throughout their program, not just when they’re working at an internship. They’re prepared to tackle a challenging case and present it with confidence, as well as being willing to take part in every SAM event.”

About the Society for Advancement of Management

The Society for Advancement of Management (SAM) is the world's oldest management society, formed in 1912 to provide a place for discussion and promotion of Frederick Winslow Taylor's principles of scientific management. A non-profit organization run and advanced by hundreds of volunteers; members come from a variety of disciplines--production, finance, marketing, accounting, research and development, entrepreneurship--but share a common bond of interest in becoming stronger managers. SAM builds bridges among academicians, practitioners, and students not only to better share management expertise but also to develop and promote new management ideas.
